MEMORANDUM FOR: Comptroller

SUBJECT: Technical Improvements in the Printing Services
Division, Office of Logistics

You will recall that when we were discussing the Office of Logistics Budget, you asked for a narrative of technical developments in printing which have led to increased production and/or reduced costs. Attached is a report covering the last several years on developments either initiated by or encouraged by the Printing Services Division of the Office of Logistics which have led to savings. It must be noted, however, that savings in printing are generally swallowed up by ever increasing demands for printing services. Without these developments, and given the same level of requirements for printing, it is fair to estimate that the personnel strength of the Printing Services Division would be from 10 to 15 percent higher and costs would have been equally increased.
